Meet Michele Bee

I reinvented my real estate biz after surviving the housing meltdown and a health crisis in my family. I had to pivot quickly or get back into the #ninetwofive grind (insert eye roll).

My focus is working in untapped real estate niches based on my 15 years of corporate consumer health and pharmaceutical sales product and marketing experience. By focusing unique niches I was able to build my brand strategically and create a six figure income in a relatively short period of time.

Couple building the listing side of your biz with with the power of social media and you can micro connect with past clients, professionals in your niches, introduce yourself to new community partners and start building engagement, followers, likes, leads, create your brand and a pipeline of real estate business in your community for pennies on the dollar!

I teach agents the art of social media through webinars, seminars and private or group trainings how grow their niches business while leveraging social media via my sipping, social media and selling programs.

Mortgage and title professionals can host my programs to build rapport and business with local agents. (PS...I teach y'all how to leverage social media for your business too so don't worry about missing out!)

Become the digital mayor of your town and untapped real estate niches today!
